By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

THE FIGHTING CHANCE

THIS IS A SOCIETY NOVEL, sparkling with the gay thrust and counter, the delicate intuitions, the pleasant inconsequences of life frivolous.

THIS IS A DRAMA, moving lightly and airily at first, then gaining intensity in a cloudier atmosphere of anger, hopeless love and sordid motives; until it bursts into a tremendous period of financial storm and stress. And at last the clouds break in a thrilling, fascinating denouement.

THIS IS A LOVE STORY, the sweetest and the most powerful that has yet come from Mr. Chambers' pen.

THE BEST SUNDAY-SCHOOL COMMENTARY

TARBELL'S TEACHERS GUIDE

To the International Sunday-School Lessons

Praised by Great Clergymen

REV. DR. NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS, of Brooklyn:
"The Tarbell Guide is a most scholarly, helpful and suggestive book."

REV. DR. CHARLES H. PARKHURST, of New York:
"The author has brought to her undertaking earnestness of thought and carefulness of research; teachers will find the volume both suggestive and stimulating."

REV. DR. WAYLAND HOYT, of Philadelphia:
"I have only satisfaction and delight to express. The whole volume is most admirable. I shall myself steadily use it. I know nothing better for the Sunday-school teacher."

REV. DR. R. S. MacARTHUR, of New York:
"I commend the Tarbell Guide without a single qualification and with hearty appreciation of its varied excellencies."

REV. DR. AMORY H. BRADFORD, of Montclair:
"On general principles I am pleased with Tarbell's Guide. It is an admirable collection of illustrations and will doubtless be valuable for all who use the International Lessons."

REV. DR. P. S. HENSON, of Boston:
"In clearness and comprehensiveness of presentation and in felicity of illustration it is positively the best thing of the kind I have ever seen."

REV. DR. J. ROSS STEVENSON, of New York:
"The teacher who has once used the book will regard it as an indispensable guide to his work."

By Martha Tarbell, Ph. D.

A large 12mo, beautifully printed in plain, open type, over 600 pages, bound in cloth. Illustrated with innumerable drawings, maps, charts, designs and photographs. $1.25.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE

By CHARLES KLEIN and ARTHUR HORNBLOW

THIS book deals with the biggest question that confronts the American people to-day, a question which President Roosevelt, in a recent remarkable speech, declared must ultimately be regulated by the State—the checking of the colossal fortunes, the curbing of our multi-millionaires. It is a vividly drawn picture of our American life presented in the form of powerful fiction.

Given first to the public in the form of a play by Charles Klein, it attracted wide-spread attention. The play has been performed all this season at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, to enormous receipts, and in other cities its popularity has been no less. In Chicago, three performances a day were given to accommodate the vast crowds eager to see the drama. This coming Fall there will be four theatrical companies presenting "The Lion and the Mouse" in different territory of the United States.

It is a great story and is bound to become one of the "Best Sellers of the year."

12mo. Cloth bound, Beautifully Illustrated, $1.50

STEP BY STEP

By MRS. GEORGE SHELDON DOWNS

JUDGED as a story, pure and simple, "Step by Step" is altogether delightful. But it is not merely a charming piece of fiction. Ethical in its nature, the underlying thought shows throughout the lofty purpose and high ideals of the author and exhales a wholesome atmosphere, while the element of romance pervading it is both elevated and enriched by its purity and simplicity.

Mrs. Down's recent book "KATHERINE'S SHEAVES," so widely read and endorsed by Christian Scientists, has paved the way for an enormous sale of STEP BY STEP.

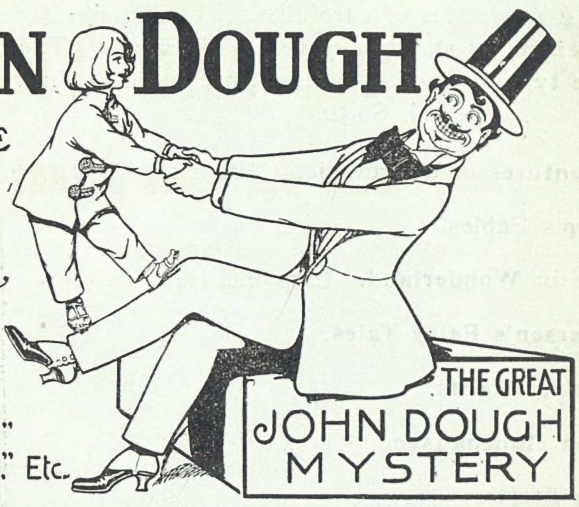
JOHN DOUGH AND THE CHERUB



A FAIRY TALE BY
L. FRANK BAUM
AUTHOR OF
"THE LAND OF OZ"
"WIZARD OF OZ." Etc.

THE GREAT JOHN DOUGH MYSTERY

Will be Published August 15th

Critics who have read the advance sheets pronounce it Baum's best story. We say it is as good as either of the "Oz" books. In it the author easily maintains his reputation as the foremost writer of children's stories. "John Dough" has a clever plot, many novel character creations quite as fascinating as The Scarecrow and The Tin Woodman, and displays throughout great ingenuity of invention.

The Feature of the Book is a Mystery Concerning the Cherub.

We have brought out the book in lavish form with pictures by John R. Neill —illustrator of "The Land of Oz"—40 full pages in color, 20 chapter headings in color and 150 text pictures. Then there are colored pictorial end sheets, title page, page of contents, dedication page, copyright page, etc.

? IS THE CHERUB BOY OR GIRL ?

One of the most important characters is "Chick the Cherub," and as the author has not seen fit to reveal whether Chick is a boy or a girl, the solution will be left to the children who read the story. Accordingly we shall largely advertise "John Dough and the Cherub" and offer a goodly sum for the best answers to the question "Is the Cherub girl or boy?" An answer coupon is to be found in each book. Dealers are certain of a brisk demand.

NOTES IN SEASON.

DANA ESTES & Co. will publish during the fall a translation of Gustav Frenssen's latest success, "Holy Land," ("Hilligenlei,") which has had almost as large a sale in Germany as the author's "Jörn Uhl," a translation of which was published by this firm last year.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. have a new sea story by W. Clark Russell, entitled "The Yarn of Old Harbour Town," which is said to be just the book to read by the seaside or on an ocean voyage. "The Girl Out There," Karl Edwin Harriman's human lovable little story, is daily winning admirers.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation a volume to be entitled "Thirteen Men," by W. A. Fraser, a collection of short stories of Canadian and East Indian life that are said to be of unique interest. They will publish on the 24th inst. "The Fighting Chance," by Robert W. Chambers, a study of the upper social life of America of the present age.

THE OUTING PUBLISHING COMPANY announce "The Story of Martin Coe," by Ralph D. Paine, author of "The Praying Skipper," which has to do with a young deserter and filibuster who is regenerated by the influence of two women, one a girl whom he loves, and the other an elderly spinster who has befriended him and whom he has befriended; also, a novel by Arthur Goodrich, entitled "The Balance of Power," the story of the loves of two friends for the same girl, with a gripping, vital struggle of every-day American life as a background.

THE REILLY & BRITTON Co. will have ready on August 15 L. Frank Baum's new wonder book for children—"John Dough and the Cherub." This story has been more lavishly illustrated than any of Mr. Baum's previous productions. The pictures are by John R. Neill, who illustrated "The Land of Oz." There are forty full pages in color, twenty chapter-headings in color, and 150 text illustrations. The story contains a great mystery, the author having failed to reveal whether or not "Chick, the Cherub," who is one of the most important characters, is a boy or a girl. The publishers have decided that the children may solve the problem for themselves and will offer a goodly sum in prizes for best answers.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will inaugurate their fall publishing season on September 6. On this date the monumental "Dog Book," in two massive volumes, will be brought out. This is by far the most comprehensive work on the dog ever published. Other books to be brought out on this day are Mary Dillon's political novel, "The Leader;" "The Airship Dragon Flyer," by W. J. Hopkins, a story for boys and girls telling about the adventures of three children in an airship; "Songs Every Child Should Know," edited by Dolores Bacon and illustrated by B. Ostertag; also, "Dixie After the War," Myrta Lockett Avary's reconstruction book which portrays the Southern situation just after the war with a remarkable vividness. Later in the month they will bring out "Witch's Gold," a new edition, rewritten and enlarged, of Hamlin Garland's little story, originally entitled "The Spirit of Sweetwater," with illustrations by W. L. Taylor and colored decorations by H. A. Linnell. It is the story of the moral development of a man who has become the possessor of much money.

Author is Principal Pitman's Metropolitan School, and holder of first speed certificate at 200 words per minute. He holds that no student need despair of reaching a speed of 140 words per minute, provided the groundwork has been properly laid.

Dickerson, Mary C. The frog book: North American toads and frogs; with a study of the habits and life histories of those of the northeastern states; with over 300 photographs from life by the author. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1906. [Jl.] c. 17+253 p. Q. cl., $4 net.

The collection of material from which this book is written is in the Museum of Natural History, New York City, with the exception of one or two color plates, which are in the National Museum at Washington. The original manuscript concerned toads and frogs of northeastern North America only. Brief accounts of the species of other parts of North America were added later. The book is intended to introduce the elementary student to the fascinations of pond life, but is intended to encourage more advanced students to serious work on the classification, life histories and habits of the frog family in North America, for there remains a great deal of information still to be gathered.

Ellis, Ellen Deborah. An introduction to the history of sugar as a commodity. [Phil., John C. Winston Co.,] 1905. 4+117 p. 8°, (Bryn Mawr College monographs, Monograph ser.) cl., $1.

Begins with a study of the wants of man and a study of the various classes of economic goods. Then sugar is examined as a commodity with regard to those qualities which it possesses or is believed to possess; this is followed by the history of sugar as a commodity in its various phases of production and consumption throughout the world. In a future essay the writer will examine the part played by sugar in the political and economic history of England in the 17th and 18th centuries; its influence in navigation and the colonial policies. Meyer, Max Wilhelm. The making of the world; tr. by Ernest Unterman. Chic., Charles H. Kerr & Co., 1906. c. 150 p. nar. S. (Library of science for the workers.) cl., 50 c.
Author has written "The end of the world," in which he showed that worlds come to an end and that this world will cease to have existence. He believes that from these defunct world systems new worlds will germinate and blossom and that we also will rise to higher stages of evolution in the universe. He gives a scientific treatise on the matter and motion which create, and claims another element superior to these but does not teach that this guiding principle of the universe is a supernatural entity. He does not solve the "great puzzle," but simply refers it to eternity.

Milne, W: Ja. Progressive arithmetic: First to Third books. N. Y., American Book Co., [1906. J116.] c. 3 bks.: 1st bk., 35 c.; 2d bk., 40 c.; 3d bk., 45 c.
The desirability of gathering together the information acquired in the first two books of the series and of including the essentials of arithmetic in one volume has led to the adoption of a purely topical method of presentation. The problems have been made both rational and practical, and they relate to a wide range of subjects drawn from modern life and industries. Algebra has been drawn upon to solve some of the more intricate problems.

Calls attention to the combination of national racial and religious types found in America such as the world has never seen before under one government. Hopes to animate readers with the purpose and hope of producing an ultimate type of Christian manhood of which the United States may be justly proud. Describes specially what each form of worship has done for the country.

Piramus, Denis. La vie Seint Edmund le Rei: an Anglo-Norman poem of the twelfth century, by Denis Piramus; ed., with introd. and critical notes, by Florence Leftwich Ravenel. [Phil., John C. Winston Co.,] 1906. 2+174 p. O. (Bryn Mawr College monographs.) pap., $1.
The manuscript in which this work is preserved was found in 1838 in the British Museum by Francisque Michel. St. Edmund was a Saxon king, who reigned in the ninth century and whose accepted date of martyrdom is 870 A.D. The poem is written in octosyllable rhymed verse. The editor has made an exhaustive study of Anglo-Saxon poetry based on the peculiarities of Denis Piramus' use of words and metres. She claims evidence of language makes it almost certain poem was composed between 1170 and 1200; evidence of matter makes it probable it was written between 1190 and 1200.

Richardson, Major J: Wacousta: a tale of the Fontiac conspiracy; with il. by C: W. Jeffreys. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1906. 12+454 p. D. cl., $1.50.

First published in 1832 in London and in 1834 in New York City by Dewitt & Davenport. The story is founded on the artifice of Pontiac, the Indian chief, to possess himself of the last British forts in Canada established along the Western frontier. When the Pontiac Confederacy had been dissolved, the English began the first commercial shipping on the great lakes. Upon the background of history the author has thrown an imaginative picture of love and loyalty.

Author holds that all scientific research reaches some point where knowledge and investigation have brought students to the unknowable. He believes a wise knowledge of the physical elements of life and an understanding of its highest spiritual meanings will lead to a natural death at ripe age, which will be robbed of all its terrors.

Thorne, Guy, [Filson Young.] The sands of pleasure. Bost., Dana Estes & Co., [1906. N23.] 5-397 p. col. front. D. cl., †$1.50.

The hero was a builder of lighthouses. The first part of the story gives a vivid picture of his lonely life following this occupation, and also gives many details of lighthouses, lightships and fog signals around the British Islands. After long years of work he goes to Paris for change and rest. He falls under the influence of a woman of the demi-monde, and his life in those surroundings is also told in detail. Finally, as a sadder and wiser man he returns to one of his lighthouses on the rock and finds lasting satisfaction in the work of his brain and hands.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Athens, Ga.—D. W. McGregor, printer and bookseller, has incorporated his business as the McGregor Company, with a paid-up capital of $25,000. The stockholders in the McGregor press will exchange their holdings for stock in the new company. The incorporators are D. W. McGregor, who is the founder of the business and its president; George H. Thornton, who has been in the employ of the concern for eighteen years and who has contributed much to the upbuilding of the business of which he is now vice-president; Fred. Whitehead, who has been with the business five years and is now its secretary; E. R. McGregor, the founder's son, who is treasurer, and C. D. Flanagan. The McGregor Company under its new incorporation will be pushed forward vigorously by its members.

Chehalis, Wash.—Duncan & Stawally, booksellers, have sold out to W. B. Charles.

Cherryvale, Kan.—L. I. Purcell has bought the book business formerly owned by E. Thompson.

Keokuk, Ia.—The Keokuk Book Company has sold out to the Collier Stationery Company.

Lawrence, Kan.—Rowlands & Stevenson have been succeeded by the Stevenson-Hopper Book Company, which has been recently incorporated.

New Haven, Conn.—H. J. Augur, bookseller, it is reported, has gone into voluntary bankruptcy.

Owego, N. Y.—Horgan & Co. have succeeded to A. W. Parmlee, bookseller.

Toledo, O.—W. D. Mudge, of Weston, Ohio, has become a member of the firm of the Brown, Eager & Hull Company, and with E. B. Eusworth will have charge of the jobbing department of the firm. They have also purchased the stock of H. O. Pratt, an old employee of the firm, who, with W. H. Eager, will have charge of their retail department. The firm is also to make a change in their place of business such as remodelling the first floor, putting a new front in the store and changing the exterior of the building.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

THE MACY PRONUNCIAMENTO.

WE reprint elsewhere in full a recent advertisement of the Macy store, that our readers may hear both sides of the important question involved. The Macy advertisement says frankly: "Books serve as a peg on which we hang a general story. While the saving on late books may not average more than 10 per cent., on other lines of merchandise it is very much greater." This is the key to the Macy position, as the pronouncement elsewhere states: the concern is willing to pay more for recent novels than it otherwise need, and to sell them at less than cost, for the advertising in it. The "principle" for which the house claims to be fighting, "the right to sell goods as cheaply as we choose," is the principle adopted by the Standard Oil Company in fighting dealers by the device of underselling through subsidiary companies, which Attorney General Hadley, of Missouri, has efficiently exposed.

The advertisement sets forth calmly that the cost of the books in question, namely, $1.50 novels sold generally at $1.08, is an average of 20 cents each for printing and binding, with a possible royalty of 10 or 15 cents to the author. This is the truth that is half a truth, which is a harder matter to fight than an outright lie. Books that can be sold the same as groceries or dry goods, that is, books which have made their market and are out of copyright, may to some extent by reasoned about on this basis of mere duplicating cost. If publishers could make new books at 20 cents or 25 cents a copy, and after paying a royalty of 10 cents or 15 cents to the author sell to the dealer at a wholesale price represented by a retail price of $1.08, publishers would certainly be rolling in wealth and their numbers would be legion. But this argument presupposes that there is no element of cost in a book other than the duplicating cost, and that there is no risk in selling new books. The Macy house could not exist if its proprietors were not more clear-headed business men than this advertisement suggests. Their profits must cover not only the cost of the individual goods, but store rent, administration, advertising, risks and losses, and if they did business throughout other departments as they claim to do business in their book department, they would not long be competitors in any field.

A straightforward, honest statement of the publishers' side of the case would be sufficient justification to the public of the endeavor of publishers to make and protect an honest price for new books. We should like to see such a statement in a Macy advertisement.

CONTRACT TO PROTECT SELLING PRICE OF BOOKS UPHELD.

JUDGE A. L. BROWN, of the United States Circuit Court in Providence, R. I., on July 24 granted the petition for a preliminary injunction against the O'Gorman Company, of Providence, asked by the Authors and Newspapers Association of New York City, restraining the O'Gorman Company from selling its copyrighted book entitled "A Rock in the Baltic."

According to the opinion, the O'Gorman Company is forbidden selling the book for the reason that it knew that the publishers had printed within the cover of the volume the following:

NOTICE TO PURCHASER.

"This copyright volume is offered for sale to the public only through the authorized agents of the publishers, who are permitted to sell it only at retail and at fifty cents per copy, and with the express condition and reservation that it shall not, prior to August 1, 1907, be resold, or offered or advertised for resale. The purchaser from them agrees to this condition and reservation by the acceptance of this copy. In case of any breach thereof, the title to this book immediately reverts to the publishers. Any defacement, alteration or removal of this notice will be prosecuted by the publishers to the full extent of the law.

"THE AUTHORS AND NEWSPAPERS ASSOCIATION."

The Court practically held that if a person bought the book without knowing of the contract inside, the provision as to sale, etc., was not binding, but that when he purchased the volume, knowing these conditions, he had not the right to violate them.

The opinion is interesting, also, because it covers contentions that have come up many times with reference to stipulations on tickets and so forth, as to which the interpretation of the law has not always been in accordance with that adopted by Judge Brown.

Judge Brown's opinion is summed up as follows:

"It is contended by the defendant that, even if the purchaser's attention is called to the notice in the book, and he is informed that the agent has but a limited authority, the purchaser nevertheless acquires a full and unrestricted title, and full right of transfer of such title. It is said that this restraint or alienation is contrary to public policy. I am unable to see any iniquity or violation of public policy in the agreement by the purchaser of a chattel that he will not resell it within a reasonable period. The purchaser gets all that was offered him, and all that he paid for, and the vendor maintains the market price by an agreement that the purchaser will not compete with him by selling the book within a limited period. To consider this is an unlawful agreement in restraint of trade would be straining the matter.

"I am of the opinion that, while it is possible that the defendant may have acquired a good and transferable title to some of the books which it has disposed of, it is highly improbable that this is the case with so many as 55 copies. It is sufficiently proved that the defendant, having knowledge of the complainant's plan of sale, and of the restrictions placed upon its agents, has instigated the purchase of at least 55 copies in New York. Whether the defendant's agents, or persons induced by them to become purchasers, were expressly informed of the notice becomes immaterial; for if the defendant had actual knowledge of the limited authority of complainant's agents such knowledge must be attributed to defendant's agents and to persons instigated by such agents to make the purchases.

"I am of the opinion that the defendant, being apprised of the agent's limited authority, could not, by procuring or inducing the agent to break his agreement with complainant, secure a better title than the agent was actually authorized to convey. While the ordinary purchaser of a book over the counter is not bound to anticipate or look for a restriction or notice of this kind, and while it seems to me rather more probable that he would not himself discover a notice of this character than that he would, yet if before purchasing he has knowledge of the restriction, I fail at present to see why it is not binding on him. While I should give little assistance to an attempt to incorporate in a contract of sale terms of which the purchaser was ignorant, and while the mere fact that a book contains a printed notice of this kind seems to me altogether insufficient evidence that the purchaser knew of it or assented to it, yet I am of the opinion that a contract between vendor and vendee that the vendee will not within a year resell, is not unreasonable nor against public policy, as applied to books of this character, and, if actually made, is entitled to protection.

"Upon the question of granting a preliminary injunction a further fact is of some importance. The books were sold by the defendant for 49 cents. They doubtless cost 50 cents, and, therefore, were not sold as a matter of ordinary business, for the sake of making a profit, but were sold at a loss for the sake of competing with the complainant. The defendant will suffer no substantial harm from being restrained from selling these books at a pecuniary loss; and to deprive it of such trade advantage as may result from breaking the price on the books, and thereby advertising the defendant's store does not, under the circumstances, seem a hardship to the defendant which should deprive the complainant of temporary relief.

"As to the terms of the injunction: It is possible that the defendant may have acquired a transferable title to some of these books, but, as it appears that the defendant, with knowledge, has instigated the purchase of, or purchased a large number of books to which it can have only the limited title of one who purchased with notice, I think the case must be treated in a practical way, and that the complainant is entitled to an injunction in general terms, but subject to the right of the defendant to apply to the court for a modification as to such books as it may be able to show were procured from persons who were not directly or indirectly instigated by the defendant to purchase them, and who purchased them without knowledge of a restriction of the right to resell. In Social Register Association v. Murphy, 128 Fed. 116, the injunction was made general, with liberty to the defendant to apply for a modification; and I think a similar course is proper in this case.

"The complainant is entitled to a preliminary injunction, and a draft decree may be presented accordingly."

BRONX (N. Y.) NEWSDEALERS' ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting held on July 26 at Schall's Lodge and Assembly Rooms, 393 Third Avenue, New York City, the Bronx Newsdealers' and Stationers' Protective Association was reorganized with the following officers: Cornelius Sweeney, president, 968 Westchester Avenue; Max Von Radowitz, vice-president, Jackson Avenue and Westchester Avenue; Charles W. Derleth, recording secretary, 1016 Westchester Avenue; John Smith, treasurer, 680 East One Hunderd and Thirty-eighth Street; Isaac Turbin, sergeant-at-arms, 1046 Franklin Avenue. The following were elected trustees: George P. Michel, One Hunderd and Fifty-sixth Street and Third Avenue; Oswald Preiss, 974 Rogers Place, and A. Rouette, 167 St. Ann's Avenue.

The secretary was instructed to apply to the Secretary of State at Albany for a charter.

PUBLISHING AND BOOKSELLING FROM MACY'S POINT OF VIEW.

THE following is a reprint of one of Macy's recent advertisements, as printed in the New York daily papers:

THE BOOK TRUST FIGHT FROM THE READER'S AND AUTHOR'S VIEWPOINT.

Simmered down, the Book Trust attempt to maintain prices on late Books affects nobody so much as the READER of late Books. Dealers who maintain Trust prices—and ALL but Macy's do—are rewarded with an extra profit that ALWAYS COMES OUT OF THE READER'S POCKET.

If we consented to sell late Books at the Trust price—$1.08 a copy—the Trust would gladly supply us with all the Books we could handle.

Considering the actual COST of PRODUCING a Book, the price the TRUST gets for it and the price the DEALER pays, $1.08, seems like an OUTRAGEOUS price for the READER TO PAY.

It is pretty generally understood that the Books in question cost the Trust publishers an average of 20c each to print and bind. The author's royalty, it is asserted, averages 10c to 15c a copy, bringing the total cost up to 30c or 35c a copy. Allow the publishers a fair profit and the retailer a fair profit and you must wonder WHY late Books retail for MORE THAN THREE TIMES THEIR COST.

With everybody concerned getting a GENEROUS PROFIT, the Book Trust's fixed price could be HALVED—the reader of late Books could buy them for 54c, instead of $1.08.

Grant the publishers a profit of 10c on their outlay of 20c; allow the author a royalty of 12c a copy and the retailer a profit of 12c a copy. This is a liberal allowance all around, yet it totals only 54c. But it is evidently NOT liberal enough for the Trust members or the stores that CANNOT SELL MERCHANDISE AS CHEAPLY AS MACY'S.

Publishers ought to wax fat and prosperous on the profits they now derive. But, dissatisfied with such great returns from their comparatively small investments, they overstep the line, seeking ABSOLUTE CONTROL of a Book until it is owned by a reader.

Banded together as a Trust, they become dictators. They sell their product only to dealers who SIGN THEIR AGREEMENT TO MAINTAIN THE TRUST PRICE—$1.08. We are not in that agreement; we cannot buy Books direct, yet we get them and sell them at 98c a copy. Buying Books in a roundabout way, they cost us MORE than other dealers pay, it is true, yet we sell them for 10 PER CENT. LESS than any other store.

For several years the Book Trust has been striving to drive us out of the business. At great expense we have waged our battle in the courts, and most SUCCESSFULLY. The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals rendered a decision in our favor only a few weeks ago. There is one step more—the U. S. Supreme Court—then the Book Trust fight will be over.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, in its decision, says:

> "The constitution grants to Congress power to legislate FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE AUTHOR. It is by no means clear that a free and unrestricted alienation of the Book at a reduced price would not be more beneficial to the author than the higher prices provided for by the publishers' combination for the benefit of a certain class of dealers."

This monopoly, therefore, is for the BENEFIT OF THE BOOK PUBLISHER and to the DETRIMENT OF THE AUTHOR. The latter gets only his stipulated royalty out of a Book, whatever its selling-price may be; and he gets LESS than he is entitled to by the exorbitant profit exacted by the publishers, for it is an accepted truism that THE LOWER THE PRICE THE GREATER THE CONSUMPTION.

With us it is a fight for a PRINCIPLE—THE RIGHT TO SELL GOODS AS CHEAPLY AS WE CHOOSE.

Selling for CASH, giving NO DISCOUNTS and PAYING NO COMMISSIONS, we are EASILY ABLE TO UNDERSELL ALL OTHER STORES.

Books serve as a peg on which we hang a general story. While the saving on late Books may not average more than 10 per cent., on other lines of merchandise it is very much greater. On high class imported goods, for example, you frequently find Macy prices just HALF what other stores ask for similar merchandise.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE VIRGINIA BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE VIRGINIA BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION, the oldest booktrade association in this country, made up of the wholesale and jobbing houses of Virginia, held its annual convention on July 18 at the T. P. A. headquarters in Richmond. There were present either the principals or representatives of the following firms: T. S. Beckwith, Jr., and T. Stanley Beckwith, of the firm of T. S. Beckwith & Co., of Petersburg; C. R. Caldwell, of Staunton and Roanoke; A. C. Brechin, of Charlottesville; J. E. Abbe, of Newport News; R. J. Alfriend, of Vickery & Co., Norfolk; P. H. Broulett, of Berkeley; A. Hartung, J. L. Schofield, and Hunter & Co., of Richmond; and J. O. Boatwright, of Danville. There were also present R. C. Stearnes, of the State Board of Education, and H. M. Starke, the latter being one of the founders and an honorary member of the Virginia Booksellers' Association.

The convention was called to order at 10 A.M. by the president, T. S. Beckwith, Jr. After the roll call, questions relating to the betterment of the wholesale business in the State were informally discussed.

At one o'clock the convention was adjourned. Luncheon was served in an adjoining room, and several hours passed quickly in making new and renewing old acquaintances, in relating past experiences and reminiscences.

The time taken up for rest and refreshment among any number of men is bound to be a profitable and enjoyable one, but this break in the business programme is made an especially enjoyable one by the Virginia Booksellers' Association—a "means of grace," as some one once said, "of forming life-long friendships."

During the afternoon session Mr. Stearnes, representing Mr. Eggleston, the State Superintendent of Education, addressed the convention on the "Supply of School Books." The members then discussed the subject of the prompt supply of school books at contract prices, the Association assuring the State Board of Education of its readiness to see to it that prompt supply was made. If the county dealers would not keep proper supply of books on hand, the teachers and other school officers will be supplied direct from the nearest wholesale dealer. It was also suggested that the teachers of schools in the rural sections be advised to secure their books from the booksellers and to distribute them to their pupils well in advance of the school season to prevent the habitual delay in obtaining school books when they are needed.

The election of officers resulted in the choice of T. S. Beckwith as president, C. R. Caldwell as vice-president, and J. O. Boatwright as secretary and treasurer. The following were elected members of the Executive Board: R. J. Alfriend, A. C. Brechin and J. L. Schofield. It was also voted that a special committee be appointed later to attend to such business as might arise, especially as to relations with publishers.

This meeting was a most satisfactory one. Each member seemed determined with enthusiasm to push forward and to make Virginia lead all other States in the satisfactory handling and supplying school books and school supplies. Having the earnest co-operation of the State Board of Education, the Association feels that it can materially aid in advancing the interest of the public school system.

The convention adjourned to meet at the call of the Executive Board. B. B.

THE ENGLISH MUSICAL COPYRIGHT BILL.

The Musical Copyright bill passed its third reading in the House of Commons, on August 1, without division.

BOOKS PRINTED PARTLY IN ENGLISH DUTIABLE.

In a decision by I. F. Fischer, the Board of United States General Appraisers overruled on July 30 a claim filed by F. Michel, of New York, it being held that books of poems printed partly in the English language are dutiable. The board interprets the tariff law to exempt from duty only publications printed exclusively in languages other than English. On this account the protest is denied.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

J. B. Lippincott Company have just brought out a work on "Diet and Dietetics, by A. Gauthier, and one on "The Elements of Chemical Engineering," by J. Grossmann.

Thomas Whittaker has just brought out "The Man and the Master," a series of studies of the cardinal characteristics of the life of Christ. The author is the Rev. James E. Freeman, rector of St. Andrew's Church, Yonkers, who has some repute as a successful sociologist on church lines.

J. Bertram Lippincott, of J. B. Lippincott Company, has contributed to "The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science" for July an interesting account of "Book Publishing," touching on publishing in all its branches and phases. The same number also contains a readable article on "Journalism," by George W. Ochs, publisher of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Cupples & Leon call attention to the fact that their rights to publish "Buster Brown, His Dog Tige, and Their Jolly Times" have been established by recent decisions by Judges of the United States Court and by the Supreme Court of the State of New York, as well as by their contract with the New York Herald, who are the owners of the copyrights and trademarks of "Buster Brown."

Robson & Adee, Schenectady, N. Y., have just ready an interesting work on the "Historic Towns of the Connecticut River Valley," by George S. Roberts, describing in the most delightful manner a number of the old Connecticut River towns. The book is fully illustrated and attractively gotten up. The publishers elsewhere call attention to their plan of marketing this book through bookstores only.

John W. Luce & Co., who are now settled in their new quarters on Beacon Street, Boston, have just ready the third volume of Oscar Wilde's plays, "Salome," "The Duchess of Padua" and "Vera the Nihilist." They will publish shortly an edition of "Salome," printed in a separate volume illustrated by Beardsley's pictures. Their first holiday book will be "The Misfit Christmas Pudding," written by the "Consolation Club," with illustrations deemed suitable for the season and an elaborate binding. "The Foolish Almanac for 1907" will be the sixth of the Foolish Series.

In connection with the George Buchanan Quatercentenary Celebrations at St. Andrews a volume will be published at once by Henderson & Son, University Press, St. Andrews, to be entitled "George Buchanan: a Memorial, 1506-1906." It will contain papers on the various aspects of the great Scottish scholar's life and work, as well as translations of his verse by students of St. Andrews, Paris and Bordeaux, and by others. The contributors include prominent professors of Scottish and French universities. An appendix will give an account of the St. Andrews celebrations, including Lord Reay's oration.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on the 9th inst. Justus Miles Forman's new novel, "Buchanan's Wife." The story deals with modern life, the chief figure being a young and beautiful woman who has married unhappily. As a last refinement of cruelty the husband decides to evade his burdens and responsibilities, and disappears in such a manner that the wife cannot find out whether he is living or dead. The way in which the woman dares to face the cruel fate that mocks her, and to wrest to herself the happiness that should have been hers by right, makes up a novel and thrilling romance.

A. C. MCCLURG & Co., of Chicago, announce among other important features for the fall a new book by Randall Parrish, to be called "Bob Hampton of Placer, a tale of Two Soldiers of the Seventh." In a general way this is a novel of what might be called Bret Harte flavor, with several characters decidedly of that sort. The scenes are laid in the Bad Lands of Dakota in the '70's. There are several exciting episodes of the kind that Mr. Parrish knows so well how to work up, culminating in a splendid description of the Custer massacre at Little Big Horn. The book will be illustrated with four full-page pictures in colors by Arthur I. Keller.

LAIRD & LEE will publish, about the 10th inst., a new book by Opie Read, entitled "By the Eternal." The story deals with an early period in American history, and depicts one of the great characters in American statesmanship—a hero who has received the homage of the nation. Although the story deals with a historical character and period, it is not, strictly speaking, a historical novel, but rather a silhouette from the past, reviving many quaint characters who sought fame and fortune among the mountains of Tennessee at the opening of the past century. The volume will have a frontispiece in three colors and a number of half-tone illustrations.

MITCHELL KENNERLEY, New York City, will publish at once "The Life of Oscar Wilde," by R. H. Sherard. It is promised that this volume will give the true facts of Wilde's career as a writer, his biography, and an account of his literary work in the many fields in which he so greatly distinguished himself. One strong purpose of the book is to dispel a number of reports which have associated themselves with his life and work. This book will give a full and detailed account of Wilde's death, gathered from the lips of the man who was holding him in his arms when he died. Mr. Sherard tells a great deal about the career of Wilde's father, which will be of interest to students of heredity. The volume contains many illustrations and facsimile documents of considerable interest.

THE art revival in Austria is the subject of the forthcoming special number of the International Studio. During recent years Austrian art has undergone remarkable development, especially in architecture and other forms of constructive and decorative art, and is particularly remarkable in comparison with other modern work in its greater freedom from eccentricity. The collateral development in pictorial art is also of exceptional interest. In this publication "Modern Painting" will be treated by Ludwig Hevesi; "Modern Plastic Art" and the "Architectural Revival in Austria," by Dr. Hugo Heberfield, and "Decorative Art," by A. S. Levetus. This publication will contain a large number of illustrations selected from the works of acknowledged leaders, together with a number of plates in facsimile colors and photogravure.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish early in the fall Mrs. Hugh Fraser's new story, "In the Shadow of the Lord," the central figure of which is Mary Washington, the mother of the first President of the United States. The story opens in London and is continued in Virginia. Amid stirring and romantic episodes it does much to clear up the enigmas in the career of the mother of "The Father of His Country." Her husband, Augustine Washington, and her son, the young George, are also among the characters. They also announce "Everyday Ethics," by Ella Lyman Cabot, with a Key for teachers, separated from the body of the text, made up of questions, suggestions for illustrations and a bibliography; also, "Forty Lessons in Physics," by L. D. McMullen, the material of which is presented in such a manner that it may readily be made to fit the needs of individuals of varying capacity.

THE MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION of the city of New York has entered a formal protest against the continuation all summer of performances of the play "The Lion and the Mouse," on the ground that it hurts their interests. They say that at this season of the year buyers come to New York from all parts of the country, and when the local merchants offer to show them courtesies they invariably express a wish to go and see "The Lion and the Mouse." Anxious to please, the merchant has to get the seats, and one cravat manufacturer complains that he has been to see the play no fewer than forty-seven times. It was upon his protest that the Merchants Association based its action. The coming publication of "The Lion and the Mouse" in book form will relieve the pressure to some extent, as instead of spending four dollars on two seats the merchant will only have to spend $1.50 for a copy of the novel.

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have just ready William Jennings Bryan's new book, "Letters to a Chinese Official," which is in some sort a reply to the "Letters from a Chinese Official" published some years ago. The story of the writing of Mr. Bryan's book has a peculiar interest of its own. Mr. Bryan was in China when the "Letters to a Chinese Official" was brought to his attention; and because he felt that the case against his own race was overstated, and too glowing a picture was painted of the condition of affairs in the Celestial Empire, he sat down in an interval, on shipboard, and wrote a reply, sending it to this country from Suez, Egypt. Mr. Bryan's book is more than a mere reply to another book. It is a glowing confession of faith in the ideals and purposes of our race, and more particularly those of the American people. It is a statement of the grounds of his own patriotism, and is permeated with a spirit of wise and serene optimism.

Moffat, Yard & Co. will publish shortly a novel entitled "Richard the Brazen," by Cyrus Townsend Brady and Edward Peple, the author of "The Prince Chap." The characters of the story are two financial magnates, one a New Yorker and the other a Texan, with a finish feud between them, and their daughter and son, respectively, deeply in love but uncertain of each other's identities. Richard the Texan tackles the complicated problem of Eastern finance, society and love making with genuine Texan fervor, and there results such a tangle of trouble that the reader's brain fairly reels with its difficulties. They also announce Marguerite Merington's new book, "Scarlett of the Mounted," a story of "the gold-lined and ice-plated Northwest;" also, a popular book on "Wireless Telegraphy," by Professor A. E. Kennelly, of Harvard, who makes the whole subject absolutely clear to the unscientific mind, sketches its history and dwells in some detail on its development in America.

Dodd, Mead & Co. will publish early next month a work entitled "Through Five Republics of South America," by Percy F. Martin, in which the author gives a critical description of Brazil, Chile, Uruguay, Argentine Republic and Venezuela as they came under his notice during a visit in 1905, with a description of the manners and customs and the life of the people. The volume has been adequately illustrated and also contains numerous statistical tables on the railway, financial, commercial, and sociological conditions of the countries described. They have in preparation a college story entitled "The Seventh Person," by Benjamin Brace, author of "Sunrise Acres," etc., which is based on the requirements imposed after graduation upon the life members of a college fraternity; also "Billy Boy," the story of a tender-hearted fellow and his influence on his father, with colored illustrations by Jessie Willcox Smith. Maeterlinck's new volume of essays to be published by this firm in the fall will be entitled "The Swarm."

A. C. Armstrong & Son will publish on August 15 a new book by S. D. Gordon, author of "Quiet Talks on Prayer," etc. The new book is entitled "Quiet Talks About Jesus," and groups in the simplest language the statements of the Bible regarding Jesus. The one thought of the author is to get a clear, simple outline, with the warm natural coloring of life of what the earnest devout Hebrew was expecting, and of what the earnest follower actually found, with an explanation of the difference. The work is arranged under four heads: (1) The purpose of Christ's coming; (2) the person of Jesus from three points of view—the human, the divine and the winsomeness of his personality; (3) the seven great outstanding experiences which reveal Jesus—his baptism, temptation, transfiguration, the Gethsemane struggle, Calvary, resurrection and ascension; (4) study notes which enable the reader to follow for himself Mr. Gordon's essential methods and thus profitably apply them to his own work and experience.

The Funk & Wagnalls Company have in preparation a work in ten volumes entitled "The World's Greatest Orations," prepared by William Jennings Bryan. It is the aim of Mr. Bryan to cover practically the field of oratory from the ancient times to the present, devoting one volume to the leading Grecian orators, one volume to the Roman, two volumes to the orators of Continental Europe, two volumes to the English, one volume to the Irish, and three to the American. Some of the orations will be somewhat abridged and, when necessary, annotated. It is the purpose of Mr. Bryan to give an introduction to the "orations" of each country, elaborating his views as to the characteristics, etc., of the oratory of each nation. Francis W. Halsey, the founder and for six years the editor of the "Saturday Book Review" of the New York Times, is associated with Mr. Bryan in this work on the "Orations," and is now with him in Europe. It is proposed to publish a popular edition of the work to sell at as low a price as $10 per set. The work will be ready for delivery this fall or early winter.

E. P. Dutton & Co. announce for immediate publication a new volume by Madison Cawein. The book, which contains the first prose work of the poet, is called "Nature Notes and Impressions," and consists of moods, fancies, descriptions, etc., sometimes in verse but oftener in prose—transcripts from nature—jotted down by the author in his note books while wandering among the woods and fields. Of Mr. Cawein's nature work John Burroughs has recently said in his volume "Far and Near" that it contains some of the "best descriptive lines in recent nature poetry." And Mr. Ferris Greenslet, the eminent critic, and an authority on poetry, whose word carries considerable weight with it, and who read Mr. Cawein's latest work in manuscript, pronounces it as one containing "a wealth of imagination and poetic observation." They also announce a volume entitled "A Woman of Wit and Wisdom," a memoir of Elizabeth Carter, by Alice C. C. Gaussen, author of "A Later Pepys." Miss Carter lived from 1717 to 1806, and was a member of the famous "Bas Bleu" society. She was a learned woman, and the translator of Epictetus. She had the warmest friendship of Horace Walpole, was adored by the Marquis of Bath, and admired by Dr. Johnson. Another book to be brought out shortly is "A Toy Tragedy," by Mrs. Henry de la Pasture, a story of children for children and their fathers and mothers.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

"A New Jane Austen"

The New York Sun says that "Superseded" by May Sinclair is "a feat that makes one wonder if in future years the quiet little English woman . . . may not be recognized as a new 'Jane Austen.' "Superseded" has been so favorably received that we are encouraged to issue at once (August 4th) AUDREY CRAVEN, which some of the most discriminating admirers of Miss Sinclair rank even higher than "Superseded"

Among the novels on our list most in demand are those notable pictures of English life, The Professor's Legacy and the Misses Makebelieve.

The Sun recently devoted 11 columns to a review of Alexander's A POLITICAL HISTORY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK (1774-1861) (2 vols., $5.00 net), and said this "meets a want widely felt, repeatedly expressed during the last hundred years." The sales indicate a ready market. Have you called it to the attention of customers likely to be interested? Its brilliant character studies of such leaders as Burr, Hamilton, the Clintons, etc., and its explanations of state politics make it a book to interest lawyers, politicians and students of history everywhere.

Orders from certain dealers indicate the selling possibilities in our new fern book, SLOSSON'S HOW FERNS GROW, with 46 plates, $3.00 net. Do your interested customers know that its striking plates reproduce ferns at life size and that it is, we think, the only fern book which in pictures and text treats of ferns at all stages of development and shows the relation between different ferns and between ferns and the rest of plant life?

A Statement of Facts

Concerning the publication of

BUSTER BROWN, HIS DOG TIGE, and their JOLLY TIMES

Being the best and latest work of

R. F. OUTCAULT

Notwithstanding the fact that we are informed by some of our trade that our competitors have been indulging in misleading statements, regarding our right to publish the above named book, we beg to say that every Court decision has been in our favor.

Our legal and moral rights to publish have been positively established by recent decisions by Judges of the United States Court, and by the Supreme Court of New York State.

The right to publish this book was granted to us exclusively by the New York Herald Co., who are the sole owners of the copyright and trade mark of "BUSTER BROWN."

Through Bookstores Only

Roberts' new book is ready, and we sidestep an old practice of the publishing trade and sell the book through bookstores only. In no case is the transportation charged to the retailer, and the discounts are: ¼ on single copies, ¼ and 5 on five, ¼ and 10 on ten copies.

We want the bookseller's co-operation to the fullest extent. Our advertising will be directed to bring inquiries to us, then the order is turned over to a local bookseller. In most cases the book is sent on the purchaser's approval—any that are returned may be shipped back charges collect.

This is the book:

"Historic Towns of the Connecticut River Valley," by Geo. S. Roberts, is just what its title implies, a delightful description of the old Connecticut River towns. It is a beautiful book, and fairly abounds with illustrations. It is receiving more favorable reviews than any previous Connecticut Valley history.

The price is $3.50 net. Order a copy to show those of your customers who know a "good thing"—every bookseller has a few such.

Circular on request.
